A University in Burnley ... so what's holding you back?

A University campus on your doorstep

A brand new £81 million development with the most up-to-date facilities is opening in Burnley this September. Sharing this site with Burnley College's new 6th Form Centre and a Skills and Adult College, UCLan's Higher Education campus will bring you degree courses on your doorstep.

The courses you will be able to study are designed to give you the best possible employment prospects and have been specially chosen with the needs of local students in mind. From September, we will have an exciting range of courses to choose from delivered at the new campus.

Your days at university are among the best of your life – and there are countless reasons why UCLan is the best place to set you on your way. All of our degree courses include career planning, employability, entrepreneurship options and the chance to take a work placement in the UK or Europe. As some of these courses are unique students may be tempted to join us from even further afield – courses like Eastern Fashion, Community Journalism, Computer Games Enterprise and Renewable Energy Technology, all addressing the skills and knowledge needed in today's economy.

At UCLan Burnley we offer over 70 HE courses including:

- alternative entry routes to HE
- foundation degrees - FdA/FdSc
- undergraduate certificates, diplomas and degrees - DipHE, BA, BSc, BEng
- top up degrees - BA, BSc - if you already have a foundation degree and want to top it up to an undergraduate degree
- postgraduate certificates, diplomas and degrees - MA, MSc, MPhil
- professional courses - in areas such as business and health

Higher Education (HE) means courses at a higher level than A levels and NVQ level 3. HE courses are usually based in your local university or HE College.

If higher education seems like a mystery, we can explain the difference between the courses, help you to choose the best one for you, and advise you on any support – financial or otherwise – which may be available.

If you choose to study on our Combined Honours programme, where you can gain a qualification in more than one subject, you'll find it's easy to study the combination of subjects that interests you most.

It's not too late to go to University if you're just leaving Sixth Form or College

We still have places available on our full-time undergraduate degrees for this September, so if you've been undecided about what to do with your life, then check out the range of courses on offer at Burnley.

You can call: 01772 892400 for more information.

Where?

UCLan Burnley is located on Princess Way in the centre of Burnley. Contact us on 01282 733333 or our enquiry team on 01772 892400.

With courses ranging from journalism to psychology or eastern fashion design to computer games enterprise, find out what's available by visiting www.uclan.ac.uk/burnley

Why?

Research proves that it still pays to get a degree. The skills that you'll learn will open up your career prospects and help you to get a better job. Studying is also a great way to broaden your horizons and increase your confidence: you'll meet lots of new people and maybe make some life-long friends…

Alternative entry routes – if you don't think you're ready for a degree course

If you haven't studied for some time or don't think you have the necessary qualifications for entering university, you might be interested in the following part-time courses. These are offered in short burst blocks over a couple of weeks, so that you can try out University study before you commit to your three year degree.

Introduction to Higher Education

This part-time course prepares students for further study in higher education. It helps develop key study skills, reading and writing for academic purposes, numeracy and IT. The course runs for two weeks in May at Burnley. The tuition fee is waived for those receiving benefits.

Foundation Studies Programme

You can then use the Introduction to Higher Education course as a stepping stone onto this course, or apply directly. Students attend 'taster' sessions before deciding on a minimum of three subjects to study in-depth. If you complete the course successfully, you can go on to study on the Combined Honours programme in Burnley. The Foundation Studies course runs twice a year: as a summer school in July or 12 evening sessions during January at our campus in Preston. The tuition fee is waived for those receiving benefits.

Foundation Entry Degrees

We also run full-time Foundation Entry courses lasting for one year, which lead directly onto degree courses. These give students the opportunity to ease their way back into study before starting on their full-time degree. For more information contact 01772 892400, visit www.uclan.ac.uk/burnley or www.burnley.ac.uk

Money, money, money… How much does it all cost?

Introduction to Higher Education (HE) - £60

Foundation Studies - £60

Part-time undergraduate degree - from £260 per module (you can study up to a maximum of 4 modules per year) - prices can vary according to courses. Please get in touch for more information.

Full-time undergraduate courses - £3,225 per year

Please note: If you are studying on a full-time course, you could be entitled to a £1000 UCLan bursary in the first year of study, if you come from a home where the principal earner's gross salary is less than £60,000 per year. Get in touch for more information.

Students will not be expected to meet the costs of their full-time fees before or during their studies. A generous system of loans and bursaries is available and you are not expected to repay your loans until you are earning over a certain amount - currently £15,000 per year.

Standard full-time postgraduate course fee - £325 per module

Full-time postgraduate course - £3,390

These are the fees for standard courses, but some for example in Online courses, in Art and Fashion or in the Lancashire Business School may be higher, so please check by calling 01282 733333 or 01772 201201 or visit www.uclan.ac.uk/burnley or www.burnley.ac.uk

Can I get any help?

There are a number of ways you may qualify for financial help with your course and we're happy to point you in the right direction. If you think you might qualify, you can get more information from the websites or telephone numbers. Please note that the figures are based on 2008/9 entry.

Runner's grand hope to help pal

By JON LIVESEY

An East Lancashire woman is raising money for a cancer charity after being inspired by her friend's battle with the disease.

Three years ago Zoe Ross was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia, an aggressive blood cancer, aged just 30. She is now recovering after a bone marrow transplant, but her ordeal prompted business partner Samantha Agar to take part in the BUPA Great North Run.

The 33-year-old, of Barrowford, is aiming to raise £1,000 for the Leukaemia Research charity, to help their bid to find better treatments and cures.

RECOVERING: Zoe Ross

Zoe was diagnosed with the disease three months after her and Samantha had set up their own firm, Professional Recruitment Partner, in Blackburn.

Samantha, a director at the recruitment firm, said leukaemia and Zoe's battle with the disease had a "huge impact" on her. She added: "It was a harrowing period which opened my eyes to how easily significant individuals in your life can be affected by such an indiscriminate disease.

"Zoe needed a bone marrow transplant and was lucky – an anonymous donor was found who literally saved her life."

Samantha will take part in the run on September 20 with over 1,000 other members of Leukaemia Research's 'Banana Army' team.

As well as confirming that her training was going well, she said things were looking good for Zoe. She added: "Zoe's made a remarkable recovery. She's even threatened to run with me next year."

Leukaemia Research aims to help blood cancer patients get better treatments and more accurate diagnosis for the disease. Kate White, director of fundraising for the charity, said: "It is fantastic that Samantha is fundraising for Leukaemia Research by running the Great North Run."

Campbell's film of Clarets' joy

By CHRIS HOPPER

Former Downing Street press man Alastair Campbell will chart Burnley's dramatic return to football's top flight in a TV documentary next month.

Clarets fanatic Mr Campbell, who served as Tony Blair's communications chief for almost 10 years, gauged the mood of the town after the club secured promotion in May.

Now his account of Burnley's euphoria is set to be shown on prime-time TV.

Mr Campbell will be seen making special Clarets-themed sausages with butcher George Heys.

And he also visits the wedding of Burnley chairman Barry Kilby, asking him whether promotion beats getting married.

Mr Campbell said: "I have followed Burnley for almost 50 years, from the very top as reigning league champions when I first saw them, to the very bottom when we had to beat Orient to stay in the league.

"Since then there have been times when I doubted we would ever get back to the top flight. To have done so was close to miraculous.

"There were so many great moments last season which more than make up for all the bad times.

"Indeed it is partly those bad times that make these good times feel so good."

Mr Campbell also pops into the town's market to discover a new "mood of excitement" among traders.

And he talks to club legends Jimmy McIlroy, Martin Dobson and Paul Fletcher, as well as BBC man Tony Livesey, about the upcoming season.

Mr Campbell added: "I was delighted to be asked to make this film for the BBC, not just about the promotion but what it means to a town that has had its fair share of problems and challenges.

"We got fantastic access from the club, and you do not have to spend long around town to feel the buzz."

Burnley Are Back is on BBC One on Friday, August 14 at 7.30pm.

MOUNTAIN TO CLIMB: Simon Halliday (right) will be tackling Mont Blanc (above)

By JON LIVESEY

A super-fit father-of-two is gearing up to take part in one of the world's most adventurous ultra-distance running races.

Simon Halliday has secured a coveted place in The North Face Ultra-Trail du Mont Blanc, which is almost equal to the distance of four marathons back-to-back.

The race is through three different countries and overall racers will climb to a height greater than Mount Everest.

Simon, 38, of Barley, is undertaking a rigorous training regime, which involves plenty of running up and down Pendle Hill.

He is hoping to stave off the threat of a niggling back injury to ensure he is fit for the race at the end of August.

Simon said he had competed in fell running events in the UK before, but this would be his time in the North Face Ultra-Trail du Mont-Blanc.

As part of the race, Simon, whose wife Toni runs the Cabin, Barley, will run across arduous terrain in France, Italy and Switzerland.

The mountain and cave guide said: "The scenery is absolutely fantastic and I'm really looking forward to taking part.

"There are other competitors who will be aiming to do it as fast as possible, but for me completing the race is an accomplishment in itself."

As part of his training, Simon, who runs a company called Up and Under, ran up Pendle Hill four times on Sunday.

He added: "I have been training but I'm hopeful that injuries won't stop me from finishing the race."

Running alongside Simon will be the North Face sponsored athlete, Lizzy Hawker, from London, winner of the women's division last year and in 2005.

Pledge to meet breast cancer patient targets

Health bosses have vowed to meet new breast cancer care targets to see all patients within two weeks.

From December women displaying non-cancer breast symptoms must be seen in two weeks under a government initiative.

But figures found just 9.5 per cent of referred patients were currently seen in that time.

Val Bertenshaw, director of operations for East Lancashire Hospitals, said the trust had met all previous targets. She added: "We are confident that by December the trust will also be meeting these new targets."

Police to add extra patrols

Increased police patrols will be implemented in Romney Avenue Park, Rosehill Estate, Burnley, after reports of large groups of under-age youths drinking and causing a nuisance.

Laura's pie hopes

By EMMA CRUCES

Holland's Pies has appointed a Cantonese and Mandarin speaker in a bid to get more of its products sold in Chinese takeaways.

Laura Chan has been made business development representative for Chinese takeaways.

In her new role Laura will be working to ensure Holland's pies and puds can be ordered as an alternative to traditional Chinese food from Chinese takeaways and restaurants throughout the North West.

Neil Court-Johnston, managing director of Holland's Pies, said: "We already deliver fresh Holland's pies and puds on a daily basis to takeaways of all kinds as well as traditional chippys.

"Our Chinese and Indian takeaway customers like to offer a British alternative to their standard ethnic cuisine, and Holland's pies and puds are firm favourites with their customers. Nevertheless we are keen to widen the net.

"Laura, who speaks Cantonese and Mandarin fluently and has an excellent understanding of the Chinese community here in the North West, is perfectly placed to help us."

NEW ROLE: Laura Chan

Laura was born in China, but has lived in the North-West for the past 17 years.

Manchester Metropolitan University mathematics graduate, Laura said: "I'm very excited about getting to grips with my new role.

"My aim is to spread the message further and I'm finding the audience to be receptive."

Holiday: Wakes return

AS IT WAS: East Lancashire folk flocked to Blackpool

THE traditional Wakes Weeks holiday is being revived during a celebration of the annual mill town migration in which generations of families flock to the coast.

Wakes Weeks developed grew up in mill towns across the North of England, with thosands of workers heading to Blackpool for sun and fun when the mills shut for the annual holiday.

Blackpool has launched the nostalgic week-long initiative to remind East Lancashire families holidaying at home because of the recession just what it has to offer.

Tourism chiefs in the resort have unveiled a package of offers and events from August 9-16 to celebrate the ritual, including family rail travel offers from the historic cotton towns of East Lancashire and beyond, and an exhibition celebrating the glory days of the Wakes holidays at Blackpool North station.

Blackpool councillor Maxine Callow said: "We believe the initiative will strike a chord with communities like Blackburn, Burnley and Accrington."

Plea to pull down town's 'suicide' car park

By JON LIVESEY

A woman whose father died after jumping from a multi-storey car park is spearheading a campaign for the building to be demolished.

Claire Judson said she was grief-stricken for years after her dad, Jimmy Haselden, plunged from the Pendle Rise shopping centre, Nelson, in 2003.

Following a number of similar deaths at the site, dubbed a suicide 'hot spot', she has now launched a campaign to have it pulled down.

More than 500 people have signed up to a group on social networking website Facebook and more than 70 have signed an online petition. But the 26-year-old, of Berriedale Road, Nelson, is hoping to get enough people to convince the owners to knock down the "eyesore".

According to Miss Judson, her father became depressed after his father died and began to self-harm before eventually committing suicide. In the last decade there have been more than five similar deaths at the site, in Holme Street.

Earlier this month, 4D Properties Ltd, which runs the centre, refused to pledge funds towards improving safety measures at the multi-storey.

Miss Judson said the number of similar deaths combined with the lack of action had inspired her to launch the campaign. The Facebook group, which has 550 members, is called 'I'm Sick of Looking at the Multi Storey in Nelson'.

Rick's career on track for success

T4 presenter Rick Edwards hosts new series, The Track & Field Show, which launched on Channel 4 on Sunday, in which the Cambridge graduate and former model travels the country, looking at the sports on offer and searching for the UK's up-and-coming athletes.

SO WHAT'S THE TRACK & FIELD SHOW ALL ABOUT?

It's a magazine show, with former athletes such as Iwan Thomas, Linford Christie and Sally Gunnell doing little bits and challenges and stuff, mainly focusing on younger athletes who are doing really well in their age groups – who I suppose could go on and do well in 2012.

HOW DID YOU BECOME INVOLVED WITH THE PROJECT?

I used to do athletics when I was a kid, and my hero was Daley Thompson. I talked to someone and mentioned I liked athletics, and it kind of came out of that.

I think they want to make the show entertainment-based, rather than just a straight sports show. Some of the lighter things we're doing are quite funny.

HAVE YOU BEEN TRYING YOUR HAND AT ANY NEW SPORTS?

I tried hurdling, which was sort of okay. I wasn't going over full-size high hurdles, it was quite difficult and I wasn't very good, but it was nowhere near as difficult as the pole vault, which is flat out the hardest thing I've ever tried.

WERE THERE ANY SPORTS YOU HADN'T TRIED BEFORE THAT YOU TOOK TO STRAIGHT AWAY?

To be honest, by the end of the pole vault, and I'd only done it for two hours or something, I was really getting into it. But the problem is, I guess, I'll never do it again because it's not the kind of sport you can just say, 'Hey guys, want to go down the park and do a bit of pole-vaulting today?'.

Funny and frolics on a Friday night

The best up-and-coming comedians on the circuit are heading to Nelson's ACE Centre next month for the First Friday Frolics comedy night.

Get involved in the action at the intimate gig with four stand-up comedians who have travelled from all corners of the country.

Gracing the stage will be host for the night, the larger-than-life (quite literally), ex-pro wrestler Steffen Peddie.

This award-winning Geordie is a regular at the Funny Bones chain of clubs and claims to be the world's first 'fat mime artist'. He's sure to have you in fits of laughter with his straight-talking.

The opening act is another Geordie, Al Dawes, who takes you back to the days when 'everything was better'. His commanding presence and instant likeability ensures the laughs keep on coming.

Ruth E. Cockburn – a regular on the North West comedy scene - is the next act to brave the stage. Talking about everything from Britney to childcare, she even finds time for a song or two.

Headline act is Juliet Meyer, who fires out clever puns and offbeat thinking. This down-to-earth gal delivers a confident, laugh out loud performance.

The show is on Friday, August 7.

Visit www.acecentre.co.uk.

CANCER RESEARCH UK

Shop Manager

Blackburn | Permanent, Full-time
37.5 hours per week
£12,750 + great benefits | Ref: 8669

Kate joined so she could be responsible and accountable.

Having started as a volunteer, Kate's now Manager of her own shop and has increased the turnover by £10,000 per year. However, managing a Cancer Research UK shop isn't for just anyone. We need commercially minded people who will make us money. People with initiative, imagination and no fear of hard work. But as any of our Managers will tell you, it's all worth it.

Perhaps the most satisfying part is seeing your turnover increase and knowing that it's helping us to beat cancer. As well as this you will get rewards and benefits.

Find out for yourself. Join the dots.

For more details or to apply, please visit jobs.cancerresearchuk.org or call our National Recruitment Line on 01403 750072, quoting the relevant reference.

Closing date: 11th August 2009.

"My degree has given me a further understanding of business in both the private and public sectors. My experiences at UCLan and Burnley College have also allowed me to meet some influential people and lots of new friends. What I have learnt during my studying is invaluable in my current employment; I have been given a fantastic foundation to build upon."

Anthony Malpass, BA(Hons) Business Studies, Business Development Manager at Fort Vale Engineering Ltd.

Fee waiver for part-time students

If your income is below £16,750 or you already qualify for certain benefits, you may be entitled to have your fees waived for some of our part-time courses.

Part-time fee and course grant

Have you lived in the UK for the last 3 years?

Are you studying for a part-time course lasting at least one year? (with the exception of Initial Teacher Training)

Is this your first degree?

Is your household income below or between £16,511 and £24,915? (Higher income levels may be allowed if students have partners and/or dependants)

If the answer to the above questions is YES, then you may qualify for financial help with your studies.

Course Grant – a means-tested grant to help you with costs like books and travel. The maximum amount is currently £260 per year

Fees Grant – also means-tested and depends on the length of time it takes to complete your course compared with equivalent full-time course. The maximum grant you can currently get is £1,210 per year.

Meaning that the maximum total grant you could get is £1,470.

You'll need to apply every year, but it's not as complicated as it sounds, and you can get help and advice from www.direct.gov.uk/studentfinance as well as the sources listed below.

Disabled Students' Allowance

Please remember that there may be additional assistance for students with a disability. You must apply for the DSA before you start your course. Contact the DfES information line 0800 731 9133 or Student Services on 01282 733333, or visit www.uclan.ac.uk/the-i

Childcare Grant

Full-time students with dependent children in registered / approved childcare can apply for help with childcare costs. You can apply for a maximum 85% of childcare costs – up to £148.75 a week for one child, or £255 a week for two or more children. This is non-repayable.

Parents' Learning Allowance

This is a non-repayable grant that is dependent upon household income. If you have dependent children, you may be eligible for up to £1,508 a year.

Postgraduate Bursary Scheme

If you already have an undergraduate qualification from UCLan or from one of our partner institutions, please enquire about the postgraduate discount scheme. You might be entitled to a 20% reduction if you are paying your own course fees. If you have graduated with a first in your degree from UCLan, you may also be eligible for the Gilbertson Award which can cover your full course fees for the year.

Additional funding

It's worth finding out about additional help for students studying part-time, especially if you are on a low income or in financial hardship.

- Access to Learning Fund (ALF) – an emergency fund to help with unexpected financial crises
- Additional Fee Support Scheme – extra money may be available to cover the cost of fees from your college or university
- Jobseeker's Allowance – you may be able to claim if you are out of work or working less than 16 hours a week while studying
- Postgraduate/Professional Studies Loans – offered by high street banks to help cover costs of tuition and living expenses on some postgraduate courses.
